

Tools for Clear Speech (TfCS) SP25

Fall 2024 was a semester of recalibration for the TfCS program. While navigating considerable budget constraints and weathering the departure of long-tenured Curriculum Specialist Kim Edmunds, the program struggled to effectively provide its full potential of student supports and services. However, the TfCS team's perseverance is evident in its ability to provide instruction to 379 students in almost 2,000 hours of instruction throughout the fall semester.

Additionally, the program began development of two new initiatives: monetizing its popular online instructional site, Tools To-Go, for global consumers; and the creation of an asynchronous, online certificate program in professional communication for multilingual learners of English. Both projects are ongoing and projected to be consumer-facing by the end of the calendar year. It is our hope that subsequent revenue will enable TfCS to once again offer its full suite of instructional services to Baruch students.
